A Message From Staff

FBCS’ teachers participate in monthly Professional Development meetings. These meetings offer a pocket of time where teachers are free to discuss their hopes and dreams for their classroom, for our campus or for themselves as educators.

This year we have had thematic discussions following the chapters of Onward: Cultivating Emotional Resilience in Educators by Elena Aguilar. Our conversation for April centered around the concept of ‘change.’

The school year ebbs and flows. Classrooms change, the seasons change, legislation changes, culture changes, kids graduate and their whole life changes. These waves of change can feel scary and uncertain but they also invite opportunity, create momentum and instigate learning.

As we finish second trimester and begin looking at third trimester and the end of the year we look forward to changes. Third trimester projects, blooming gardens, new hires and other changes are right around the corner. We don’t know what all is to come but we peek around that bend with curiosity and we meet it with an attitude of learning and growth.

This is spring; the time of ever-changing new things.
